FPSP of CT Team Member Medallion Nomination Form

Many of the qualities of an outstanding FPSer are obvious: quickness, creativity, knowledgeability of process, diligence and industry. However, other important virtues may be more subtle. Do you work with a teammate who puts in the time and effort required to select just the right word for the key verb phrase? Does someone on your team have great team spirit? Some students inspire their team members with their generosity, open-mindedness and consideration of the feelings of other members of the team. Others may serve as the group conscience, intervening to keep everyone honest.

To honor these qualities, the Future Problem Solving Program of Connecticut created the FPSP of CT Team Member Medallion. It differs from other FPS awards in that a fellow team member can only put nominees forward. It gives students an opportunity to honor one of their own.
